Radio host joins T4K to raise money and awareness for hospitals

She’s healed the hearts of millions of Americans with her nightly radio song request and dedication program, but the most-listened-to woman on the radio, Delilah, has turned her attention to healing America’s kids. As a spokesperson for Together for Kids, a national alliance of children’s hospitals including CAMC Women and Children’s Hospital, the syndicated radio host will help raise money and awareness for this and other Together for Kids hospitals nationwide.

“As the mother of 11 children, I know that when your child is sick, nothing else matters,” said Delilah. “That’s why I am so passionate about the work being done by Together for Kids to connect its member hospitals with the funding they need to care for sick and injured children, regardless of their ability to pay. Every child deserves every chance to live a healthy life.” According to the American radio personality, author and songwriter, Together for Kids stood out from other children’s charities because one hundred percent of all funds raised directly support the health care needs of children served by its member hospitals. Throughout the year, Delilah will take her audience of more than eight million listeners inside the walls of Together for Kids hospitals to get to know some really courageous patients facing some very serious health challenges. She’ll also introduce listeners to the people who work tirelessly to treat children affected by serious illness or injury. “This partnership presents an opportunity to strengthen the work of CAMC Women and Children’s Hospital with the advanced technology, treatment, education and medical research we need to tackle today’s toughest pediatric issues,” said Gail Pitchford, president, CAMC Foundation and board member for Together for Kids. “We are delighted to have Delilah join our alliance of children’s hospitals in creating a single voice advocating for children’s health.”

Welcome

Rachel Beckner has joined the CAMC Foundation staff as Senior Development Officer. She is responsible for all fundraising aspects for CAMC Women and Children’s Hospital, including the CAMC Gala and Golf Tournament. She has raised money in the Kanawha Valley for eight years, most recently with the Kanawha County Public Library, where she was the Marketing and Development Manager.

Year-end appeal brings in $11,000

As 2010 came to a close, the CAMC Foundation made a year-end appeal for donations to help grow and improve our space in the emergency room at Memorial Hospital. Sixty-six people responded by donating $11,132 toward the project.

Fourty-four of those giving to this case were new donors. Thank you to all those who contributed toward this very necessary project. The emergency room is responsible for about 55 percent of patient admissions at CAMC. The expansion project is expected to cost more than $8 million and would add 10 multi-purpose treatment rooms. The overall goals are to reduce wait times and improve patient flow.
